FIGHT OPENED ON MARSHALL

Secretary of War Baker is Proposed For Vice President.

WANTS A STRONG MAN

McCombs and Norman E. Mack Deny Any Change is Contemplated By Party Managers.

St. Louis, June 13. —Ante-convention discussion centred largely yesterday on moves and suggestions to defeat plan for the renomination of Vice-President Marshall, and put a new man on the ticket with President Wilson. As the number of delegates to the Democratic National Convention grew hourly, greater boomlets for various favorite sons appeared on the surface to rise and fall with the tide of talk.

A move to defeat Vice-President Marshall for renomination took well-defined form and substance when Henry Morgenthau, who recently gave up his post as Ambassador to Turkey that he might engage in the work of re-electing President Wilson announced that a "stronger man" than Marshall should be named, and brought forward Secretary of War Newton Baker, to run with Preesident Wilson.

News that Mr. Morgenthau was booming Secretary Baker, created something more than mild discussion, for it was pointed out that Mr. Morgenthau had been close to the Administration and that it might indicate that the naming of Mr. Baker would not be unacceptable. Mr. Morgenthau hastened, however, to make it clear that he was urging Mr. Baker's nomination on his own responsibility and initiative solely with the desire of naming the strongest possible candidate for the office.

National Chairman William F. McCombs, said last night that he had received a teltgram from Jacob Schiff, the New York banker, asking that a stronger candidate than Mr. Marshall be named, and Mr. Morgenthau also stated that he had a letter from Mr. Schiff requesting that some one other than Mr. Marshall be put on the ticket.

Talk that Secretary Baker's name would be presented as a candidate for Vice-President caused a rush of delegates to National Committeemen and other party leaders to know if there had been any change in the plans to rename Mr. Marshall. The information was quickly given that "noses had been counted long ago," and that while one or two names other than Marshall's might be heard on the convention floor the vote for him would be virtually unanimous if there was not a nomination by acclamation.

"There will be no hitch in the plan to rename the present Democratic ticket," said Mr. McCombs last night National Committeeman Norman E. Mack, of New York, also declared that the talk of upsetting the plan to rename Mr. Marshall was silly and absurd.

Booms for new candidates for Vice-President still appear hourly, the last one to come to notice last night being one for Judge A. M. Jackson, of Winfield, Kan.

SPAIN AND GIBRALTAR

German Historian Declares Alfonso's Government Should Join Central Powers.

Berlin, via Amsterdam, June 13. — "The very name of Gibraltar sounds like the crack of a whip to Spaniards and brings the red blood of shame to their faces."

Quoting the Archbishop of Tarragona as having written these words in a letter to Dr. Gustav Diercks, leading German historical writer, in a book just published and entitled "What is to Happen to Gibraltar?" puts forth a lengthy and spirited argument with a view to proving that the hour has come for Spain to assert herself and join the central powers to wrest from England what has been wrongfully taken from her.

NEW VIRGINIA GAME LAW.

All Sheriffs, Deputies, Policemen and Other Peace Officers Designated Ex-Offico Wardens.

Vigorous prosecution of game law violations are expected coincident with the going into effect on June 18 of the new game act passed at the last session of the legislature.

By the terms of the new act all sheriffs, deputy sheriffs, marshals, constables, policemen, members of the commission of fisheries, oyster police captains and oyster police inspectors or other peace officers of the State shall be ex-officers game wardens. It is further provided by the act that special wardens shall receive no stated salary, but when acting under special instruction shall receive not more than three dollars per day for their services and necessary expenses while traveling in the discharge of their duties. In regard to regular game wardens the act says that they "shall be employed for such a time and receive such salary as the game commissioner shall fix upon, not to exceed fifty dollars per month in counties and cities containing less than twenty thousand inhabitants and not exceeding sixty dollars per month in counties and cities containing more than twenty thousand inhabitants."

Regarding the cost of prosecution the act has the following to say:

"When an arrest or a prosecution for a violation of the game and fish laws by the commissioners, or by any game warden or other officer is had or instigated, and the defendant is convicted, there shall be taxed as costs in favor of the person making the arrest or instigating the prosecution ,a fee of two dollars and fifty cents. No such fee shall be allowed in cases of acquittal. And in addition any special warden or other officer or other person shall receive one-half or fifty percentum of the actual cash fines collected from the defendant upon conviction to be paid by the officer making the collection at the time of payment in each prosecution instigated by said warden, officer or other person, and in addition thereupon such warden or other officer shall be paid for serving warrants, making arrests, and serving subpoenas and summons, said fees to be included in the costs taxed against the defendants and shall be paid out of the game fund in the event of failure to convict or if they cannot be collected from the defendant.

Broad authority is given to the game commissioners and his deputies by the new act. Under its terms the commissioners and deputies are empowered to arrest any person found in the act of violating any of the provisions of the forest, game and inland fish laws herctofore, now or hereafter enacted, and to seize, and to search any refrigator, building, vehicle, car, coach, depot, office, restaurant, cafe, hotel or other place of whatsoever nature in which the person making such arrest, as aforesaid, has reasonable ground to believe that the person so arrested has concealed or placed any fish or game which may furnish evidence of the violation of game or inland fish laws of this State and such arrest, seizure or search may be made without a warrant, and any animal, bird or fish or part thereof, which has been killed, taken or captured or had in or proven to have been in possession of any person in violation of the game and fish laws of this State shall be deemed prima facie evidence that the person in whose possession the same is found is guilty of having taken, captured or killed such bird, fish or animal" The act further provides that all persons desiring to hunt must procure a license on or before July 1, for three dollars, which gives him permission to hunt in season for a year. Each hunter may, under the terms of the act, be required to exhibit his license, and failure to do so may be construed as evidence that he is hunting without a license.

SENATE FORCED "OUSTER LAW"

Refused to Adopt Measure Designed For Moral Act Only.

SWEEPING IN TERMS

Applies Principally to Sabbath Day, Owing to Liberal Interpretation Given It.

If there is any real danger of the ouster law's interfering with Sabbath-day conviences which have come to be regarded by the people as necessary, the House of Delegates of Virginia may virtuously shift the burden of blame to the upper house, which alone was responsible for broadening the law to make it apply to every case in which local or State officials have been found guilty of failing to enforce the statutes.

The "ouster-bill" chapter of the proceedings of the last General Assembly is an interesting one. Late last Jaunary, when the Mapp prohibition bill was introduced in the Senate, announcement was made by the prohibition leaders that there would follow shortly an ouster bill designed to strengthen the enforcement of the prohibition, anti-vice, and anti-gambling laws.

At that time it was not contemplated to make the ouster law general in its application. "The right arm of prohibition" is what the "dry" leaders called the bill. Its very language limited it in application to officers charged with the nonenforcement of the socalled "moral" measures

In this form it was reported by the Senate Committee on Moral and Social Welfare, on February 14. On February 27, when the bill came up on its passage, the Senate attached the amendment which made the law universal in application and which now threatens the State with a season of "blue law" enforcement reminiscent of the days of the Puritan fathers.

"It would make us the laughing stock of the Senate," said Senator Cannon, of Richmond, on the fateful February 26, "to solemnly sit here, and by implication, put the stamp of our approval upon the nonenforcement of other laws, provided officers did their duty in the enforcement of these special statutes. If we are to have such a law, by all means make it general in its application."

There was no evading the logic of this argument, and the Senate proceeded to amend the 'right arm of prohibition" by making it also the right and left arm of the Code of Virginia. The Code, be it remembered, is quite bulky. Among other things, it forbids labor on Sunday except the limited activities rendered necessary by one's household duties and others that are exempted under the head of works of 'necessity" or "charity."

The long-headed House Committee on Moral and Social Welfare apparently had a vision of the storm that would follow the enactment of the Senate measure and promptly excised the "broadening" amendment, leaving the bill as it was originally introduced, applying only to officers charged with the non-enforcement of the "moral" laws. The House itself passed the bill as it came from the committee and it went back to the Senate for concurrence in the committee amendment.

Had the Senate agreed to the House amendment, the Commonwealth would not be convulsed today in digesting the drastic pellet that Governor Stuart finally gave his approval. The upper house flatly refused to agre to the lopping off of the "broadening" amendment and sent the amended ouster bill back with the request for a conference.

That was late in the session—a day or two before adjournment. There was no time to waste in further bickering. A conference committee sustained the Senate's contention and the House passed the bill as it stands today. In this manner was passed the famous "right arm of prohibition" which has delivered a knockout blow for the time being at least, to the State's peace of mind.

While the law is expected to affect most directly officers who fail to enforce strictly the laws against the violation of the Sabbath, nowhere in the act is this class of law violation specified. The law is in the most general terms and applies with equal force to the officer who fails intentionally to arrest an offender who violatees any State law on Tuesday and the officer who is similarly delinquent on the holy Sabbath.

Every Sabbath law—with the exception of one—that is on the statute books now, was there years before the ouster law was passed. The last General Assembly added a new law, declaring to be a work of necessity, the delivery of ice cream on Sunday, where such cream was manufactured on a week day. Otherwise there has been absolutely no change in the code governing the observance of the Sabbath.

U-BOAT TO VISIT U. S.?

Steamship Officials Bets $5000 German Submarine Merchant Liner Will Arrive By July 5.

New York, June 13—A bet of $5000 at even money was made yesterday that a German submarine liner would register her arrival with the customs authorities of this port before July 5. The wager was made between men of two wellknown steamship companies.

The man who bet the super-submarine would arrive was not only confident she would make the voyage without trouble, but would enter this port without submerging.

A person in close touch with the German Embassy stated last week that the first U-boat liner would arrive here from Cuxhaven on Juue 22 and would sail for home on July 9.

Her cargo, it is said, will consist of mail, parcel post, express matter and drugs valued at more than $1,000,000.

Mr. Frank Slaymaker, who has been confined to his home by sickness for the past two weeks, has returned to his office.

RUMORED FALL OF CZERNOWITZ

Petrograd Hears That Capital of Bukowina Has Fallen.

PUSHING TO LEMBERG

Czar's Troops Roll Austrians Back, ..Who Are Not Given Time to Discharge Loaded Guns.

Petrograd, June 13. Hurling westward with seemingly superhuman vigor, the Russian armies of General Brusillof, are now nammering their way toward Lemberg, the Galician capital, in giant strides.

The demoralized Austrian defenders are rolling back before them.

It is now estimated that more than one-third of the men in Austrian armies on the east front have been killed, wounded or taken prisoners since the giant offensive started June 4.

Approximately 120,000 men and officers have been imprisoned to date. In actions such as the Russians are engaged the estimate of the conservative critics is two killed or injured for every prisoner. This would mean that a total of 360,000 Austrians have been put out of the fighting since June 4.

The Austrian army on the east front has been variously estimated at from 700,000 to 1,000,000 men.

The new Russian line now makes a deep U into the region toward Kovel. Every mile here is a double gain. It drives the Austrians back and at the same time makes the positions of the Germans on the line toward Riga less tenable.

In the south the armies of the Czar are knocking at the gates of Czernowitz and the rich country beyond. Unofficial reports are that Czernowitz has already been taken. This has not been confirmed.

London, June 13—So rapid was the advance of the Russian armies in the region of Lutsk that the Austrians in several instances did not even have time to fire the guns they had loaded, according to a Petrograd dispatch today.

In these instances the Rusians appropriated the guns where they stood, turned them right about and poured their deadly hail into the fleeing men.

Petrograd, June 13.—A rumor is in circulation here that the Russians have occupied Czernowitz, capital of the Austrian crownland of Buckwina. The rumor lacks official confirmation, but it has been given color by the capture of Dobronovtz, a commanding point, 10 miles to the northeast. The Russian line here extends to Okna. From both these points good roads lead direct to Czernowitz, and according to military authorities, they are the only points in this direction capable of defense.

A telegram from Bucharest, Rumania, says the Austrian Army has evacuated Czernowitz and moved to a line four miles to the west.

The continued successes of the Russians recorded in official communication are the more surprising, as the Austrians, after the first shock of the Russian advance, appeared to have rallied their forces and offered extremely stubborn resistance. This is indicated by the fact that they were able to mass sufficient forces in the vicinity of Kolki, north of Lutsk, to cause the Russians to retire across the Styr river.

Not only here, but at other points on the Volhynian front furious counter-attacks characterized the last 40 hours of fighting, but without being able to check, except momentarily, the force of the Russian advance.

It is not believed herethat the Germans are sending many troops to aid the Austrians. It is pointed out that only in one instance—during Russia's spectacular Carpathian campaign—did Germany send any large number of men to the relief of the Austrians, Instead, it has always been their practice to undertake an offensive on some other line in an endeavor to draw off the Russians. It is the opinion of observers here that it is not improbable the Germans are more likely to attempt an offensive on the northern section of the Russian front than to risk weakening their lines by detaching any number of men for the purpose of stiffening the Austrian defense.

Russian troops approached the outskirts of Czernowitz, the War Office announced. The statement also says that Russian troops attacked the bridgehead at Zaleszyky.

The number of Austrians captured by the Russians in the new offensive movement has been increased to more than 114,000. In many sectors of the front, the statement says, the Russians are still pursuing the defeated Austrians.

Czernowitz, the objective of the Russian drive on this part of the front, was in possession of the Russians for some time early in the war, but they were compelled to evacuate the city during the progress of the Austro-German offensive.

Zalescyky is on the River Dniester, 30 miles northwest of Czernowitz, It was in this region that some of the heaviest fighting of the Russian offensive last spring occurred.

DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM

Tentative Draft of Planks at Conference of Party Leaders.

St.. Louis, June 13.—With a tentative draft of the proposed Democratic platform planks dealing with the foreign and Mexican policies of the administration before them, the Democratic platform builders are having conferences with a view of determining whether or not these planks as drawn shall be strengthened any.

Those engaged in shaping the defense of the administration know only too well that it is against this part of their platform that the Republicans are preparing to train their heaviest guns. The draft of this part of the platform here is represented as being in part the President's own phaseology.

The proposed draft in its present shape declares it to have been the President's purpose in handling the world-wide problems with which he has had to deal to follow a policy:

"1.—Of honorable neutrality as between the belligerents, with all of whom this nation was at peace, and with all of whom this nation has many binding ties of friendship."

"2.—Of maintaining and insisting especially upon the observance by belligerents of the rights of the government of the United States and its people, incidentally of the right of all neutral nations, as founded upon treaty obligations, and the recognized principles of international law"

"3.—Of standing solicitously ready at all times to offer a sincere and friendly service, in any acceptable way, to the nations at war to bring about peace among them and restore normal world conditions."

Concerning Mexico, it is declared that the President's desire has been to contribute, so far as was possible, to the eestablishment of a stable and truly representative government which might restore order.

It goes on: "In his brave effort to aid Mexico in solving this difficult problem, having always in view the promotion of American ideals of a true democracy, he has been compelled to face just and well-founded complaints of grievous wrongs made to this government by wellmeaning men representing religious and individual interests.

"That indefensible wrongs against all these interests have been committed is indisputable. But like wrongs have been committed, not only in Mexico, but in Europe, wrongs of war committed in foreign lands, beyond our jurisdiction. None has felt this more keenly or suffered more because of it, than the President.

"What the President has wished, and still wishes to do, is clear. He wishes peace, order and stability in Mexico, accomplished by Mexicans themselves if possible, leavig [ac]tual outside intervention as a last resort."

VIRGINIA MUST WAIT IN DEBT CASE

Supreme Court Refuses to Make West Virginia Pay Now.

MUST BE GIVEN TIME

Legislature of Younger State Has Not Met in Regular Session Since Decision Was Awarded.

Washington, June 13.—Chief Justice White, of the Supreme Court of the United States, in an opinion handed down yesterday, declared that in the judgment of the Court the Legislature of West Virginia should be allowed to consider the $13,000,000 judgment in the debt controversy with Virginia before steps are taken to compel the younger State to pay. The Court therefore dismissed Virginia's petition for a writ of execution.

The General Assembly of West Virginia will meet next January, and if it does not make provision for the payment of the $13,000,000 judgment the Court stated that Virginia would then have the right to come in and ask for a writ of execution. The State of West Virginia is now paying $600,000 interest annually on its share of Virginia's old debt, the Court holding that interest should be paid on the amount until the judgment is satisfied.

Virginia petitioned the Court last week for a writ, the effect of which would have been to place West Virginia's property on the auction block to be sold unless the judgment is satisfied. West Virginia oposed the writ on three grounds, two of which were that the Legislature had not had an opportunity to consider the judgment and that it doubted the authority of the Court to enforce a pecuniary judgment against one sovereign State in favor of another

The Court held that the grounds of West Virginia's first plea were good, but made no comment as to the other. It held that West Virginia would be given a reasonable opportunity to pay.

RECTOR'S COMMANDMENTS

Admonitions to Young Men Contemplating Matrimony

Buffalo, N. Y., June 13—Here are the ten commanrments for the guidance of prospective bridegrooms given by the Rev. Robert J. MacAlpine, of the Central Presbyterian Church, in a sermon here:

1. Don't bank on mere beauty; it is unreliable as the weather.

2. Don't marry for talent, popularity, or wealth. Without love these would be as insipid as an egg without salt.

3. Don't let sentiment rule you. Like a flower, it is apt to fade before tomorrow.

4. Don't marry a woman whose stock of common sense is no greater than her dollars and cents. As no amount of the latter can buy the least amount of the former, you would likely soon be a hopeless insolvent.

5. Don't propose to a young woman whose tongue isn't silent during the sermon. She has sermons in store for you.

6. Don't marry a girl who thinks more of a good time than a good name. Your good time would very probable never arrive.

7. Don't choose a young woman who is more concerned about how she looks than how she acts. One is what she appears to be, the other is what she is.

8. Don't marry your opposite in religion. Your religion is likely to outlive your love.

9. Don't marry till your heart and hand are as clean as those you have won. Black and white mixed makes both a dull gray.

10. Don't marry in haste. For the sake of at least two lives, keep in mind the modern key-words; "safety first" and "preparedness."

COMING BLUE SUNDAY

Police Ordered to See That the Law is Strictly Observed In Future.

Alexandria will experience the 'bluest' Sunday in its history next Sunday, as there is every indication that the Sunday closing law will be enforced to its fullest extent.

Practically every merchant in Alexandria was notified by the police that they must observe the Sunday Law.

The law has been on the statutes for a number of years, but has only been enforced by the police in this city at long intervals. But next Sunday the "ouster law" which was passed by the last legislature goes into effect, and this law provides such severe penalties for failure by the authorities to observe every law on the statute book that the officials of the city are forced to take notice of the Sunday closing law.

The ouster law provides that any individual or society can proceed against and officer, and that the charges must be given preference by the corporation court.

There is considerable difference of opinion as to just what business the law permits as a "necessity" on Sunday, but it is generally agreed that all the stores, barber shops, shoe cleaning establishments, garages, and livery stables, will be compelled to close.

Mayor Fisher stated today that he had given orders to the police to enforce all of the laws on the statute Look. He said that the extent to which Alexandria would be affected by the "blue laws" would depend upon the interpretation of the courts.

STONE ATTACKS HUGHES.

Senator Stone Sees Menace In Taking Man From Supreme Bench

St. Louis, June 13.—Senator William J. Stone, who is to be chairman of the Resolutions Committee of the Democratic Convention, issued a statement yesterday calling the Republican platform drafted in Chicago a "remarkable fulmination," with one-half the legislation it demanded already enacted and the other half now being worked out by the Democratic party.

Senator Stone said he considered Mr. Hughes a man of ability and character, but looked upon his nomination while he was on the bench as full of menace and danger.

"My objection to the nomination of Mr. Hughes," said the Senator's statement, "lies in the fact that I regard it as bad in every way, even vicious, for a great political party, hard pressed and on its uppers, to invade the Supreme Court of the United States and take down from the bench one of its justices to make him a party candidate for a political office to meet and serve a party exigency. Hereafter it is more than probable that men appointed to the Supreme Court will begin to regard it not as the honorable and final goal of their ambition, but as a stepping stone to what they will, as Mr. Hughes does, regard as a political advancement beyond the judicial position they hold.

"In that view of things, it will follow that the decisions of judges of that great tribunal will become more or less the subject of suspicion.

"I am inclined to the opinion that it would be wise to so amend the Constitution of the United States as to make a justice of the Supreme Court ineligible to any political office while a member of that court or for five years afterward."

Paris, June 12.—Repeated and violent German attacks directed at the trenches west of Vaux were completely repulsed, said the French war office statement today.

An artillery struggle of the utmost violence is in progress on the Souvilles and Tanness sectors.

West of Soissons the French artillery destroyed the German works, one shell causing an explosion within the German lines, apparently having struck an ammunition depot.

The Germans turned to the west bank of the Meuse earlier, and delivered two strong attacks on the French positions on Hill 304, and one east of the hill These attacks were completely checked, the Paris account says. East of the Meuse the shelling goes on.

CARDINALS BEAT SPARTANS.

The Cardinals Sunday defeated the Smarton Athletic Club team, the "Pride of the Island," South Washington, by the following score: Cardinals, 13; Spartans, 2.

Big Jim Sweeney was on the firing line for the Cardinals and held his rivals hitless until the eight innings, only two hits being made off his delivery during the nine innings played. Tommy Degnan behind the bat was at his best and caught a pretty game.

Tommy O'Donnell was the day star, getting three two-base hits and accepting all changes in center field in grand style.

Purdy, at short stop, performed in a masterful way and used his bat to advantage. Dug Merchant, the lad who catches everything on land and in the sky near the first base sack, put the runners out in the twinkling of an eye.

McLean, second base; Devers, third base; Owens and Cornell, right field and Polly Brewer in left field worked together like clockwork and were the submarine crew that sent their enemies to the bottom.

Koogle was the star player for the Spartans in left field and behind the bat. Three pitchers were used to conquer the wrecking crew of the Cardinals, but all failed in the attempt.

Windsor Snowden and Manager Payne of the Alexandria White Sox, were the umpires of the game and no fairer decisions could have been given even by a Supreme Court Justice.

SUNDAY OBSERVANCE

The observance of Sunday, the first day in the week, has been enjoined upon most of us from our infancy, and it is generally allowed that this day should supercede the old Jewish Sabbath Day, or seventh day of the week. While there is no command or suggestion throughout the New Testament as to the observance of any day in the calendar, the fact that the early Christians came together "on the first day of the week to break bread" has been deemed sufficient to hallow Sunday. The last book in the Bible represents the apocalytic seer as being "in the spirit on the Lord's Day," but it is a matter of contention what day of the week the writer was referring to.

We have ever believed that it would be better were as little work as possible done on Sunday. Hundreds—yes, thousands—of persons contribute every Sunday towards making others work, while it should be apparent that people should not be kept upon a steady treadmill and that such are entitled to their weekly day of rest. But what can be done towards bringing about this great desideratum when so many have different views? While most believers in Christianity are convinced that all occupations should cease on Sunday, many others, and some christians, too, contend that Saturday is the day upon which rest should be taken. Orthodox Israelites also insist that the seventh and not the first day should be observed. The Mahometan, equally as conscientous, is sure Friday should be kept as a day of rest and worship.

The principles upon which the United States has been established are averse to the nation taking any religious sect under its tutelege and when appeals have been taken to higher courts by persons fined or imprisoned for violating the first day of the week these tribunals have in many cases set aside the judgments of the lower courts.

Considerable interest has recently been centered in the Sunday laws of the state which it is purposed to put into effect on the 18th instant. These laws are not new; they have existed for some time, as have also our city statutes. Thirty years or more ago attempts were made to enforce these laws, and a number of persons were fined by the Police Court for conducting business on the first day of the week. In nearly every instance when appeals were taken to the higher court the judgment of the lower tribunal was set aside.

On August 14, 1904, by order of the late Mayor Simpson, 62 persons were cited to appear in the Police Court to answer the charge of conducting business on Sunday. Many were dismissed, as it was shown that the occupations in which they were engaged were works of necessity. A number were fined, and in each case where appeals were taken to the higher court the accused were dismissed.

Were we all of one accord there would be no trouble in enforcing Sunday laws, but as there is so much divergence of opinon manifested by those interested, it is a difficult problem to handle, as will be shown when attempts are made to enforce the state and city laws next week.

MORALE OF THE GERMANS.

While much that is said concerning the morale of the Germans should be taken with allowance, some stories which are going the round of the press bear evidence of truth. A dispatch from Paris says the number of deserters from the German armies fighting around Verdon is assuming large proportions. Almost every night some of them make their way into the French trenches.

Three German infantrymen were thus taken prisoners by the French near a listening post in front of the trenches, to which the trio had crawled in the darkness. The first, a wholesale dealer in leather from Leipzig, was forty years old, and had been wounded while fighting on the Russian front. He declared himself delighted at having succeeded in making his escape, as the shelling of the French artillery was driving him nearly insane. He said that when he left home he was confident of Germany's final and decisive victory, but now he realized she was doomed to disaster.

"My own business," he said, "is ruined. I did most of my business abroad, and some of my best customers lived in Paris. Now all Europe hates us, and it would be foolish to hope that we shall be able to win back our old markets. Who will care to do business with us after the war? The best thing we could do would be to sue for peace immediately on the best terms obtainable, but our military leaders will never permit that. We must go on to the bitter end."

The second prisoner was a young student of the 1916 class. His father is a teacher in a small town in Alsace. He told how he had happened to become enrolled in a regiment consisting of men twice his age.

"When it was decided to attack Verdun," he said, "The German military authorities called for volunteers. In order to help along recruiting, they depicted to the young people how they would cover themselves with immortal glory at Verdun and how the triumpal entry into the fortress and the resulting fall of Paris would remain an event which would never be forgotten by those to take part in it. Many of us were tempted by offers of some office at home when the war was over as a reward for coming forward when it was necessary for Germany to strike a decisive blow. I was one of these.

"We were also told that we would never be called upon to do any hand-to-hand fighting, as the German artillery would wipe out all resistance. Now all my comrades have fallen, and I could no longer stand the constant sight of the dreadful carnage. The memory of what I have seen on the battle field haunted me every night, and I felt it was driving me mad. I simply had to get out of it."

The third prisoner was a miner and the father of seven children. He declared that he had been driven to desert through brutal treatment and lack of sufficient food.

"It was becoming quite unbearable" he declared. "We were being treated worse than dogs, but the thing which made me make up my mind to desert was the letters I received from my wife at home.

"She told men that my children were starving. As a prisoner, I hope to be able to help them. I know you allow your prisoners of war to work and pay them well. Every penny I make is to be sent home to my wife and children in Germany. May those who are responsible for this war be cursed forever."

BALAAM AND ROOSEVELT

The Philadelphia Record draws an amusing parallel betwen Theodore Roosevelt and the prophet who was rebuked by an ass.

Balaam was a redoubtable prophet whose countenance when in wrath would curdle milk, whose big stick was capable of making the soil of Palestine shake, and whose mighty voice reverberated around Carmel and Gerizim as though it were thunder. He did an extensive business in cursing enemies and enjoyed—greatly—the reputation of uttering more awful malodictions than any other man in the prophet profession.

He was sent for on one occasion to paralyze the enemies of his clients with his most terrific and blasting curse. They were assembled in Chicago in an effort to intimidate the enemy and cause his retreat by such puny objurgations as they were capable of, by terrifying contortions of their countenances, and by threats of what Balaam the son of Beor would do to them if they did not take heed.

The foes did not scare. They went ahead with the plans to capture the country without the slightest regard of the verbal thunderstorm that might be launched at them. In fact, they made the particular nomination that they had been especially warned not to make lest Balaam should come and shrivel them with his oratorical outbursts. They actually defied him. Then the clients sent in haste for Balaam to come and destroy the enemies, and the message he returned was that he was not prepared to do it at this time. He might fel like doing it later; a good deal would depend upon the results he was likely to incur if he practiced his arts on the foe. If they wished to remain in Chicago until he made up his mind what it was likely to cost him to do the cursing act, he should be happy to have them stay and make themselves at home. If this didn't suit them they had better call off the malodictory engagement. He was glad they were in an heroic mood; none others had any right to expect anything from him. But at the present time he was not in an heroic mood himself.

He added that at the time he made the engagement to go to Chicago and curse the enemy he had reason to believe—George Perkins told him so—that the enemy would not wait to be cursed, but would flee before his face, or would make obeisance before him and ask him upon what terms they could secure his blessing. Instead of doing this, they had defied him; they had done the one thing most obnoxious to him; they had refused to split the difference by taking Lodge; their temper was such that it was evidently of no use to curse them. Therefore conditions had changed, all bets were off, and the curses could not be delivered.

This is the true story of the reason Balaam the son of Beor refused to curse the enemy, and the commander in chief of the army of the Lord at Armageddon threw up his commission rather than go into a fight. "I am out of politics," he said, which was obviously true. 'I haven't a darn thing to say for publication." It will be remembered that eminent Casuist Mark Twain, said that a man who said "darn" when he meant "damn" was a moral coward.

NEWS OF THE DAY

Powerful attacks by Germans on the right bank of the Meuse, in the entire region west and south of the ruins of Fort Vaux, and in the Sonville Tavennes sector, failed according to the official communication issued by the War Office last night.

Nelson Brownfield, 35, of Akron, Ohio, a rubber worker, visiting at the home of his brother-in-law, George Braford, in East Liverpool, yesterday shot and killed his wife, Della, 35, and then killed himself, No motive is known.

Representatives of the railway brotherhoods who are demanding an 8-hour day, and time and a half for overtime, yesterday refused to accept the tender made by the conferference railroad managers in New York.

New York Central passenger train 11, westbound, running more than two hours late in a fog, ran into a crowd of nearly 20 workmen waiting on the tracks at Cleveland, O., for a work train early yesterday, killed two outright, seriously injured three and bruised a score.

German Americans in Philadelphia express themselves as not only satisfied but well pleased with the nomination of former Justice Hughes by the Republican National Convention. He was the choice of the Federated German Societies, they say, and will command almost the united support of German Americans.

Court of Maryland, Daughters of Isabella, a companion organization of Columbus, was instituted Sunday at Frederick, Md., with 46 members. The Court of Baltimore degree team conferred the degrees. The Hagerstown Court and representatives from the Alexandria (Va.) and Washington Courts also were present.

Nine men were injured, one probably fatally when an automobile owned and driven by Emerson Showers crashed into a body of marching Modern Woodmen recurning from a memorial service at Stone Church Cemetery, Elm Grove, yesterday afternoon, near Wheeling, W. Va., Showers was learning to drive the machine. He accidentally turned on the gas. The machine swerved and knocked down a dozen men. It was immediately lifted off the bodies of the four who were most seriously injured, and after physicians dressed their wounds, all were removed to their homes.

The Supreme Lodge, Knights of Pythias, has power under its constitution to rerate members as in 1910, increasing the dues payable by "fourth-class' members. This was decided yesterday by the United States Supreme Court in a decision setting aside a judgment awarded S. Mim, by Texas courts. Mr. Mim was a fourth-class member of the order and objected to the increase in dues He sued to recover all he had ever paid in dues.

Progressive party leaders began swinging into line for Justice Hughes in Chicago yesterday. Henry Allen, of Kansas, one of the strongest Roosevelt admirers in the Middle West, declared himself in without reservations last night. He was for Hughes he said, all over the lot. "We Progressives simply got put out of business, but we still have an opportunity for service in supporting Justice Hughes. I believe the great majority of Progressive rank and file of the country will fall in now."

Judge Richard H. Cardwell, of Hanover, was yesterday unanimously chosen to succeed Judge James Keith, of Fauquier, as president of the supreme court of appeals of Virginia. Judge Cardwell is the "senior" member of the court and is no wserving his twenty-second consecutive year. Judge Fredrick Wilmer Sims, of Louisa, elected to succeed Judge Keith as a member of the court, yesterday took his seat in court.

During the discussion of the fortifications bill yesterday , Representative Montague, former Governor of Virginia, attacked the pacifists. He said: "We cannot hope to terminate the war in Europe by preachments and parchments and lofty examples, desirable though that end may be. I would just as soon think of attempting to stop two savage bulldogs fighting on a street corner by reading them Tennyson's poems, as to think that such efforts will bring an early peace in Europe.

NEWS OF THE DAY

The Ulster Unionist Council, while showing no enthusiasm for the proposed home rule compromise, at a meeting yesterday in Belfast, presided over by Sir Edward Carlton, authorized Sir Edward to proceed with the negotiations. The attitude of the members was that they were willing to make sacrifices in order, as the government desires, to obtain a settlement which would strengthen the empire and aid in winning the war. The meeting adopted a resolution stating that in the event of failure of negotiations complete freedom of action was reserved to oppose the whole policy of home rule.

Broken hearted over the death of her husband and despairing of providing for her three small children, Mrs. J. W. Cooper, of Raleigh,N. C. shot herself through the breast yesterday and died almost instantly. She had spent all the resources left by her husband. Her father, Pat Barbee, section foreman for the Southern Railway, is ill at this time. While she left no statement, these conditions are believed to have impelled her act.

The British Minister to Greece in the name of the Entente Powers, has presented to the Greek Government the demands constituting the conditions upon which the blockade would be raised. As an outcome of the energetic measures adopted by the allied governments the demoblization of a part of the Greek Army is already under way. Nine Greek steamers in Marseilles, France, are being detained on an order from the French Ministry of Marine. Other Greek vessels in the Mediterranean are being brought in as a consequence of the blockade of the Entente Powers against Greece.

AGREEMENT REPUDIATED.

Mexican Mob Commended by Gov. Trevino for Spirit of "Patriotism."

El Paso, Tex., June 13.—Another agreement to co-operate with the United States forces in restoring order in Northern Mexico has been repudiated by the Carranza government, Gov. Trevino supreme military commander in the north, has denounced Gen. Gavira for entering an amicable conference with Gen. Pershing over the disposition of troops.

It is now admitted officially that Gavira was relieved as commander of the border zone because he listened to suggestions from Gen. Pershing instead of attacking the punitive expedition.

Trevino, addressing a mob which rioted through the streets of Chihuahua City the greater part of Sunday, thanked them and commended the spirit of "pariotism" which prompted the demonstration.

The cry of the mob was "kill the gringoes," It was the same mob which attacked the American consulates a few days before and desecrated the Stars and Stripes .

The facts seemingly need no further elucidation to show how the pillars of the defacto government re themselves mainly responsible for the anarchy which prevails throughout the once happy republic.

The increasing frequency of border raids is directly attributed to the rapid disintegration of the Carranza military organization.

At Hachita, one of the cavalry patrol was shot three times by Mexican snipers during the night.

The Laredo district is being terrorized by bandits, who were brought to the border from Monterey on a military train furnished by the Carranza commander at Neuvo Laredo.

The country south of Chihuahua City is entirely controlled by bandits.

Gens. Cho and Marquese formerly leading lights in the constitutionalist cause, are raiding and looting the Tampico district.

San Antonio, Tex., June 13.—Three of the Mexicans who raided the Coleman ranch were killed by a sheriff's posse and three captured by cavalrymen under Capt. Wellborn yesterday.

Washington, June 13.—With 1,500 additional regular troops ordered to the Mexican border last night and reports of the rapid spread of anti-American feeling continuing to pour in from consuls all over northern Mexico, administration officials made no attempt to disguise their uneasiness. It was officially admitted that there is growing alarm over what the agitation may produce and the posibility of an attack on Gen Pershing's expedition.

No case of attack on the persons of American residents in Mexico has been reported, although there have been one or two attacks on vacant consulates and other American property.

BRYAN IN ST. LOUIS.

St. Louis, June 13.—William Jennings Bryan arrived today and found the Democratic national convention ready to tell him "Good-by and God bless you."

Nothing could be more indicative of how Democracy's times have changed than the fact that the great commoner, four times a dominant figure in national conventions and three times Democracy's candidate for Presidential honors, now figures in the councils o fthat party as a mere alternate from Nebraska and a reporter.

In all the platform talk heard today there was no indication that the former Secretary of State would have a hand in the hewing of the planks. He pledged himself several weeks ago not to inject the prohibition issue into the convention—and having done so, the Democrats were willing today to let Bryan alone with hopes that Bryan would also let Democracy alone and raise no discordant note in the harmony program.

A SYMBOL OF HEALTH

The Pythagorians of Ancient Greece ate simple food, practiced temperance and purity. As a badge they used the five pointed star which they regarded as a symbol of health. A red five pointed star appears on each package of Chamberlain's Tablets, and still fulfils its ancient mission as a symbol of health. If you are troubled with indigestion, biliousness or constipation, get a package of these tablets from your druggist. You will be surprised at the quick relief which they afford. Obtainable everywhere.
